

Thinking of becoming a Secondary History teacher?

Apply today!

Our Secondary History PGCE is run by a team of committed, passionate and experienced staff who offer a diverse range of expertise and genuine conviction that our approach to teacher education is the best way to develop outstanding teachers. Our staff have extensive school and university teaching experience as well as school-based leadership experience. We train you to be critical and creative subject specialists, and to become educational leaders in your own right!

We offer

- ◆ Outstanding training in subject teaching
- ◆ A phased and supportive approach, where you work with experienced teachers in two contrasting school placements to develop excellence and independence in the classroom
- ◆ Research-inspired teaching from University staff alongside input from leading classroom practitioners
- ◆ Excellent completion rates, student satisfaction, and employability
- ◆ Outstanding support for the Masters-level elements of the PGCE and the opportunity to continue onto an MA in Education qualification at Exeter

Find out more

- ◆ Contact Bryan Smith for information or an informal chat: b.p.smith@exeter.ac.uk
- ◆ Come to one of our Open Days or meet us at another event: www.exeter.ac.uk/education/pgce/opendays
- ◆ Visit www.exeter.ac.uk/education and view the secondary subject specialisms
- ◆ Order or download a copy of our prospectus: www.exeter.ac.uk/education/pgce/prospectus
- ◆ Visit www.exeter.ac.uk/education/pgce/feesandfinance for finance information

We look for

- ◆ Trainees who are passionate about history and the positive impact studying history can have on young people's lives
- ◆ An understanding of what life is like for secondary school teachers, and a desire to support young people in and out of the classroom
- ◆ A willingness to take risks, collaborate, and take on a challenge!

