

International Cyber law in Practice: Interactive Toolkit

International Cyber Law: Bridging the Gap between Academia and Practice Workshop Timetable

Tuesday 29 May 2018, 13:00-17:00

Swissôtel Tallinn (30th floor)
Tornimäe Street 3
10145 Tallinn

Please note: This workshop is invitation-only. The discussion will be held under the Chatham House Rule.

12:00-12:45 Optional: Hosted lunch at The Quarter (8th floor of Swissôtel)

13:00-13:30 Welcome and introductions

13:30-14:15 Model scenario: Election interference through cyber means

Please refer to the model scenario sent separately. We will discuss both the substance and the form of the scenario, as well as the advantages and disadvantages of the model as such. The discussion will be led by Dr Kubo Mačák, with the bulk of the session done in smaller groups.

14:15-15:00 Bridging the gap: Analysis of the findings from the pre-event survey

A brief presentation of the findings from the survey will be given by Dr Kubo Mačák, followed by a structured discussion in smaller groups. The aim of the session will be to identify pathways of bridging the gap between academia and practice in international cyber law, as applied to the development of the interactive toolkit.

15:00-15:30 Coffee break

15:30-16:30 Unlocked shields: Practical exercises as a method of dissemination of cyber law

Mr Tomáš Minárik will present a hypothetical case study based on the previous Locked Shields cyber defence exercises. We will then analyse select legal issues arising from the case study in smaller groups and consider their utility for the dissemination of international cyber law.

16:30-17:00 Conclusions and continuity

For more information about the workshop, please contact Dr Kubo Mačák, University of Exeter (k.macak@exeter.ac.uk) or Mr Tomáš Minárik, NATO CCD COE (tomas.minarik@ccdcoe.org).
