

Love Research- Love Data: Getting the Most Out of Sharing and Using Data

Louise Corti (University of Essex)

I'll be focusing on what is required to make a social science dataset shareable, including your own PhD data; and then on the kind of data we hold and what people do with it. We have a wide variety of survey datasets from government survey, longitudinal data and linked administrative data. People do a wide range of things with data, from descriptive statistics to tabulation, to regression.
